

February 15, 2018 Meeting

The RG&FC February 15, 2018 program, “Seed Starting at Home,” will come at a time when many gardeners are up to their eyeballs in seed catalogs, and will soon turn to seed-starting. But even some veteran gardeners are unsure of how best to get those precious seeds to germinate and grow into great plants for spring. With help from Robin Fruth-Dugstad, Lead Instructor of Horticulture Technology at Rochester Community & Technical College, this program will focus on how the average home gardener can successfully grow plants from seed.

After growing up in a family of serious gardeners, Robin Fruth-Dugstad, has been Instructor of Horticulture Technology at Rochester Community & Technical College for 22 years. She has lead the Horticulture Technology Department, including advising the RCTC Horticulture Club for about 10 years.

In 2008 Robin received the Award of Excellence in Teaching for her challenging and innovative curriculum
